Whitehall, March 19.

YEsterday the Right Hon. the Lord Mayor, Aldermen, and Common Council of the City of London, waited on his Majesty at St. James's with the following humble Address, being introduced by his Grace the Duke of Grafton, Lord Chamberlain.

To the King's Most Excellent Majesty.

The humble Address of the Lord Mayor, Aldermen, and Commons, of the City of London, in Common Council assembled.

May it please Your Majesty,

WE the Lord Mayor, Aldermen, and Commons of the City of London, in Common Council assembled, most humbly beg Leave to congratulate your Majesty on the happy Conclusion of the Marriage of the Princess Royal with his most Serene Highness the Prince of Orange.

Our Minds presage the greatest Glory, the brightest Triumphs, and the most distinguished Prosperity to these Nations, both in the present and future Ages, from another Alliance with that truly Illustrious House, the House of Nassau, from whence so many Heroes have sprung, the Scourges of Tyrants, and the Assertors of Liberty.

Among these we must for ever remember that glorious Prince King William the Third, who delivered these Kingdoms from the imminent Dangers of Popery and Arbitrary Power; and, during the Course of his important Reign, established the Constitution, and secured our Liberties in such a Manner, that he seems to have left nothing more to be done, than what we hope was reserved to compleat the Glories of your Majesty's Reign: A Reign in which we justly promise ourselves, that nothing will be omitted which may appear necessary for the confirming our ancient Constitution; for easing the People from those heavy Burthens, which the Defence of their Liberties induced them to impose on themselves; for encouraging the Trade and advancing the Maritime Power of this Kingdom; for making us happy at Home, and respected Abroad.

And as we have a grateful Sense of the many Blessings we enjoy under your Majesty's auspicious Reign, we beg Leave to assure your Majesty of our hearty Endeavours in our Sphere to promote an affectionate Zeal for your Majesty's Person and Government; that your Reign may be easy and happy.

JACKSON.

To which His Majesty was pleased to give the following most gracious Answer.

My Lord Mayor and Gentlemen,

I Return you my Thanks for this dutiful and loyal Address, and am very glad that the Marriage of my Daughter with the Prince of Orange gives such general Satisfaction.

It is a great Pleasure to me to see this Metropolis remember with so much Gratitude, the Deliverance of these Kingdoms from Popery and Slavery, by my great Predecessor King William.

A just Sense of the imminent Dangers that this Nation then escaped, and of the inestimable Blessings that we now enjoy, will best secure to my People the Continuance and Preservation of our present Happiness, which it has been, and always shall be my Care to support and maintain to the utmost of my Power.

Then they waited upon Her Majesty, being introduced by the Right Honourable the Earl of Grantham, Her Majesty's Lord Chamberlain; and Mr. Baron Thomson, the Recorder, made their Compliments in the following Speech.

May it please your Majesty,

THE Lord Mayor, Aldermen, and Commons of the City of London, most humbly beg Leave to congratulate your Majesty on the Marriage of her Highness the Princess Royal to his Serene Highness the Prince of Orange.

As you, Madam, gave Birth to this amiable Princess, and had the forming of her excellent Mind, and adorned her with all those Accomplishments which make her so justly and universally admired, To your Majesty will be owing, not only the Happiness of the Prince her Consort, but the Effects of your Majesty's Cares, Wisdom and Goodness, will be extended for the Welfare of all those Countries, where ever her Royal Highness shall have any Influence.

And

[Price Two Pence.]

And the People of this Nation will have Reaſon to retain a grateful Senſe of your Majeſty's beneficent Intentions towards them in promoting this happy Union, as it gives them an additional Proſpect of Princes from the Branches of ſuch illuſtrious Families, who have ſo eminently diſtinguiſhed themſelves in the Cauſe of Liberty and the Proteſtant Religion.

Theſe his Majeſty's moſt faithful Subjects beg leave to tender their humble Acknowledgements to your Majeſty, with their moſt ſincere Wiſhes for the Continuance of your Majeſty's Health and Welfare; that your Majeſty may live to ſee this happy Pair bleſs'd with a numerous Iſſue; that they alſo may live to be form'd by your Majeſty's Inſtructions and Example, and then they cannot fail of proving Comforts to your Majeſty and Bleſſings to the World.

To which Her Majeſty was pleaſed to make a moſt gracious Anſwer.

Then they were introduced to Her Highneſs the Princeſs Royal; and Mr. Baron Thomſon made their Compliments as follows.

May it pleaſe your Royal Highneſs,

THE Lord Mayor, Aldermen, and Commons of the City of London, moſt humbly beg your Highneſs's Permiſſion to congratulate your Highneſs upon your Marriage with his Serene Highneſs the Prince of Orange.

As all his Majeſty's Subjects are nearly intereſted in the Welfare and Proſperity of your Royal Highneſs, 'tis with the utmoſt Satisfaction we ſee your Royal Highneſs deſigned by Providence and your Royal Parents, to give Joy and Happineſs to a Prince of the illuſtrious Houſe of Naſſau; whoſe eminent Virtues, and the moſt ſhining Qualities, give juſt Reaſon to hope that this happy Union will be attended with all the Felicity to your Royal Highneſs that your Heart can wiſh and deſire.

And as you, Madam, by your natural Perfections are formed to pleaſe; as your Sweetneſs of Temper, diſtinguiſh'd Senſe, and your other Accompliſhments, have the moſt engaging Charms; they cannot fail to endear you to the Prince your Conſort, to create in him the moſt affectionate Tenderneſs and Love, and to procure the univerſal Eſteem and Veneration of the World.

May your mutual Joys and Comforts for ever continue without the leaſt Allay: May our ardent Deſires be fulfilled, by your yielding to the World a numerous Progeny: May they live to flouriſh and proſper, and by imitating the great Examples of their illuſtrious Parents, make your Royal Highneſs the Author of many Bleſſings, not only to this Age, but the lateſt Poſterity.

To which her Royal Highneſs was pleaſed to make a very obliging Anſwer.

Then they were introduced to his Serene Highneſs the Prince of Orange; and Mr. Baron Thomſon made their Compliments to his Highneſs in the following Manner.

May it pleaſe your Serene Highneſs,

THE Lord Mayor, Aldermen, and Commons of the City of London, humbly entreat the Liberty of congratulating your Highneſs on your Marriage with her Highneſs the Princeſs Royal.

As you, Sir, are deſcended from the Illuſtrious Houſe of Naſſau, and nearly ally'd to that great Deliverer of this Nation at a Time of the utmoſt Diſtreſs, the glorious King William the Third of immortal Memory; as you, Sir, are now united to a Branch of that Family, which he thought moſt worthy to be the Protectors of our Rights and Liberties; and to ſo bright a Princeſs, formed by the Care, and after the Example of her Royal Parents; as your own great Character made this Alliance the Object of the united Wiſhes of all his Majeſty's Subjects; It now gives an univerſal Joy and Satisfaction, that your Highneſs is thus related to Great Britain. And it yields us a pleaſing Hope, that there will never be wanting a Succeſſion of Princes, (the Offſpring of this happy Marriage) endued with all the heroick Virtues of your Highneſs and your glorious Anceſtors; who then will have it in their Nature to be Friends to this Nation, and Defenders of the Liberties of Europe.

We eſteem it an Honour, Sir, that we have this Opportunity of tendering our moſt hearty Wiſhes to your Highneſs, for the Continuance of all that Joy and Delight, that ſolid Comfort, which muſt flow from the Endearments and Affection of a Princeſs of ſo much Merit and Beauty. We wiſh your Health, Welfare, and Proſperity; that you may live to exert your Nobleneſs of Soul, and all your inherent and hereditary Virtues, in the Support of Truth, Religion, and Liberty, in relieving the Injured, and protecting the Diſtreſſed, and by a diffuſive Benevolence, promoting the Happineſs of Mankind.

May you thus, Sir, accompliſh true Honour and Glory.

To which his Serene Highneſs made an Anſwer in a very obliging Manner.
